WHO WE ARE

Founded in 1987 by Yvan Miron, Stageline specializes in the design, manufacture, sale and rental of hydraulic mobile stages. Stageline is the first company in the world to have designed and manufactured covered hydraulic mobile stages. The company has revolutionized the entire outdoor entertainment industry by transforming the conventional stage into mobile stage equipment. Based on Canadian and American building codes, Stageline mobile stages, whose reliability is unmatched, are considered high-end products by the entertainment and event industry.

VALUES

EXPERTISE

Commitment to colleagues and customers to always deliver, on time, high quality work.

HARMONY

Treat others as everyone would like to be treated with respect and courtesy.

UNITY

Show solidarity with the team, the company and its commitments.

A WORD FROM OUR FOUNDER

"I can't be more challenged and on my toes. Years went by developing mobile stages from our pioneer days to today and from proposing the idea locally to promoting the innovative concept internationally. I am proud of Stageline and its number one reputation, proud that we better understand technical and safety issues thanks to thirty five years of hands on staging experience. From scratching a guitar to scratching my head, I still get to play in a great band, the Stageline Band. And the results are harmonious and can be summed up in just a few chords: easy, profitable, safe and built to last."

- Yvan Miron, CEO and founder of Stageline

OUR PRODUCTS

A Stageline mobile stage is a highly sophisticated piece of equipment that incorporates four technologies: mechanical and structural engineering, transportation, hydraulic and stage technology. It is built with state of the art manufacturing equipment to ensure that the equipment last at least 20 years.

A full-time team of designers, engineers and production experts is dedicated to the development and continued improvement of products.

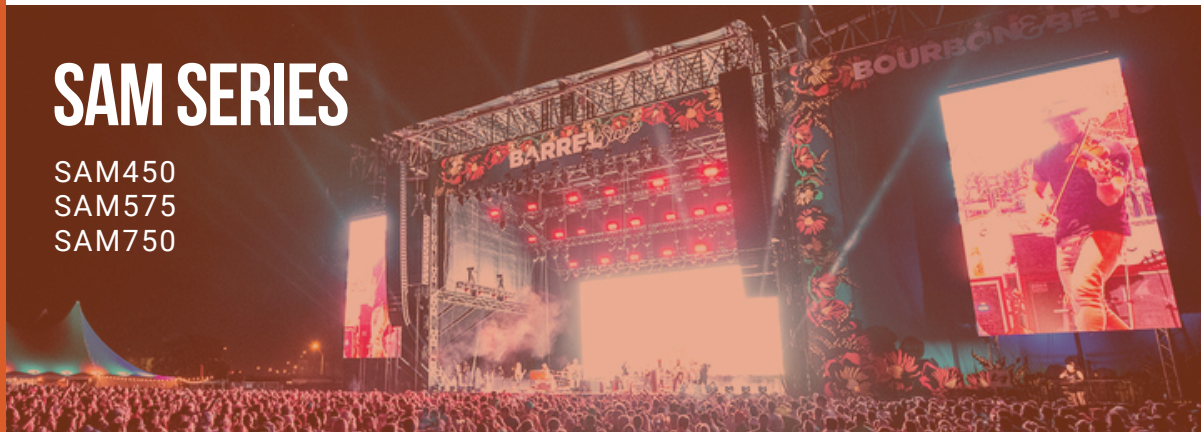

Thanks to the exceptional construction quality and engineering of its mobile stages based on Canadian and American building codes and high design criteria, Stageline has confirmed the strictest industry standards in terms of safety and reliability.

In transport mode, a moving stage reduces fuel consumption by at least 50% compared to conventional stages.

In installation mode, the use of machinery is reduced by 80% compared to conventional equipment.
